It is amazing the variety and amiability of character that is worn for years to cover the foul fiend within. For long periods these female vampyres live in the heart of a family circle, wearing the most life-like marks of goodness and kindness, of personal attraction and spiritual gifts; caressed, feted, honored as the very pride of their sex, while they are all the time calculating on the lives and purses of those nearest, and who should be dearest to them.

She certainly was not the mere Marchiones but he princess of poisoners; and yet it remained for Madame Ursinus to give additional toucher of perfection to this peculiar character. She was at once a lady of fashion, a pictist, a writer of useful tracts, a poetess, and a poisoner. Through all the dangers of these various careers, she lived to the good old age of seventy-six, and died—lamented! Brinvillers, Zwanziger, and Gottfried, confessed that they were conquered by their crimes; but Madame Ursinus, branded in public opinion, continued to defy it, and conquered even that, and to the very last gasp persisted in playing the here. to the very last gusp persisted in playing the he-roine. Nay more, without confession, remorse, or penitence, she strove in her own way, and with no pentience, she strove in her own way, and with no triffing success, to achieve the title of a saint.

Surely it is worth while to dig up from the rubbish-heap of the Prussian criminal court a few fragments of the history of such a woman.

"Not to myself alone,"

The circling star with honest pride doth beast:

"Not to myself alone I rise and set;
I write upon night's coronet of jet
His power and skill who formed our myriad heat;
A triendly beacon at heaven's open gate,
I gem the sky,
That man might ne'er forget, in every fate,
His hope on high."

"Not to myself alone,"
The heavy laden bee doth murmuring hum;
"Not to myself alone from flower to flower I roam the wood, the garden, and the bower, And to the hive at evening weary come;
For man, for man, the luscious food I pile

With busy care, Content if he repay my cheerless toil With scanty sbare.' "Not to myself alone," The soaring bird with lusty pinion sings;
"Not to myself alone I raise my song;
I cheer the drooping with my warbling tongue,
And bear the mourner on my viewless wings;

I bid the hymnless charl my anthem learn, And God adore— I call the worldling from his dross to turn, And sing and soar." "Not to myself alone," The streamlet whispers on its pebbly way;
"Not to myself alone I sparking glide;
I scatter health and life on every side,
And strew the field with herb and thow ret gay:

I sing unto the common, bleak and bare, My gladsome tune; I sweeten and refresh the languid air In droughty June." "Not to myself alone,"

Our doctrine, and the doctrine of our fathers, is that the place of a man's allegiance is a matter of choice, at his own discretion. If Mr. O'Sullivan is still an Irishman, and not an American, he is right not to vote, make political speeches, or offer for other. If he should, no American, wherever he may have been born, onght to vote for him.

Come, Sanders, are piano, so far as execution is concerned, and yet, so you afraid to say a word to Prentice, who calls your allies black. Will you not resent such would not only tickle the ear and please the fancy with the sweet sounds it produces, but go deeper and touch the heart, as music always does. It is too much the fashion now-a-days to applaud the performerfor his finger-work, more than the harmony for its beautiful, elegant, rich, grand, or touching ideas: consequently a performer than the them on that ground of the Missouri Compact, or on that of general opposition to the Pierce dynasty and its policy, the Republican members, we have leason to believe, will meet them on that ground, units with the sweet sounds it produces, but go deeper ing ideas; consequently a performer who wishes to please, selects such pieces as will best display his mastery over the key-board. But it is a vicious fashion, and one which should be frowned down, if we do not wish music to be music no longer, but a conglomeration of sounds, soulless and senseless; we shall always combat such a fashion, whether we accomplish anything or not. With a different we accomplish anything or not. With a different school of music, it is probable he would play with whom they nad no voice in housings, who we accomplish anything or not. With a different pretty snrely disappointed.

We speak thus trankly to the friends of Mr. Culmore spirit, if less brilliancy.

Signor Leonardi has a good baritone voice, rich, ont not very powerful, and commands it well. His manner is not sufficiently easy; there is a constraint in it that makes the audience feel uneasy; we labor in this uneasiness till the clear rich tones of his voice draw our attention from his appearance. He would make a much greater impression on his andience, as well as better enjoy his music himself, if he would throw more grace and ease into his manner. His duett with l'arodi, "Laci darem la Mano," was excellently well sung, and stamped him not only an artist, but a musician.

Madame Strakosch made a favorable impression spite of one or two faults, which she shared with Parodi; she addressed herself too much to the audience near the foot-lights, and not enough to the body of the house; then the smile which she called to her face, was at times almost a laugh there was too much of it. With her style we were much pleased. Her voice is good, combining richness with clegance and polish, and possessing a quality of cheerful sweetness that touches our love for the beautiful and good; it is well cultivated and under good command, but is not by any means brilliant. She sings ballads very prettily, but for one fault, which is perhaps fashion's more than l'arodi's voice it is somewhat difficult to name: it is not exactly pure soprano, nor yet contralto. Her chest-voice is full, rich, and melodious-her middlo voice, strong and elegant, while her headvoice is powerful and brilliant. Her powers are highly cultivated, and under most excellent command; and she has in reserve a force and weight for the forte passage, or the swell, that conveys an idea of immensity-of vastness to be wondered at. And yet with all her power and vigor and spirit, her voice possesses a quality of softness and sweetness, which enables her to render a piane passage with exquisite feeling and beauty.

We have one great fault to find-not more with Mad. Strakosh and Parodi than the world of musical artists and concertizers generally-it is the introduction of the trill into a ballad -we mean the m \sim lern trill—the trill whose length in time exceeds six or eight measures. This modern trill is not a legitimate offspring of music, but an off-shoot of artisticism—if we may coin a word. It has no quality nor characteristic of music except sound—is devoid of soul and sense, and as innocent of beauty as the ugliest creature in existence. It is but the result of a love for display—it is an unsightly tumor on the hely of music which fashion. legitimate offspring of music, but an off-shoot of sightly tumor on the body of music which fashion has said must become an ornament-it is the effect of an effort to improve nature, and consequently is a botch. It may suit the Italian school of music an exactly, for almost the only lesson taught in that school is the love of display. But it botches and ruins heart-music, and the ballad is the music of the heart. A neat little trill, not longer than a half-America is for Americans. That is a true doc- . [From the New York Tribune.] Throughout the recent canvass, the Massachu-etts Know-Nothings maintained in their convensetts Anow-accountings maintained in their conven-tions, in their papers, and on the stump, that they were fully as anti-slavery as the Republicans. Their anti-slavery character, in fact, was one great element of their success; for it is asserted that more than half of the old Freesoil party ad-hered to them, and voted for Gardner on the al-leged ground that he stood in a better anti-slaveleged ground that he stood in a better anti-slavery position than Rockwell; and that the Springnield platform—the official Know-Nothing platform —was, so far asas slavery is concerned, actually in advance of the Republican platform. Of the correctness of this last assertion there can be no donbt.
The Know-Nothing platform, which all the KnowNothing platform, which all the KnowNothing platform, in their schuler in the contract of the con-Nothing papers kept standing in their columns dur-ing the entire campaign, and to which their stump orators constantly appealed, is unquestionally more decisively anti-slavery than the cautiously-guarded and limited one constructed by the Republican convention at Worcester. to be admitted into the Union as a slave State."

It will be seen from this that the Massachusetts Know-Nothings have cut themselves square off from the National party. It should be observed, also, that the third resolution is meant for an approval of the removal of Judge Loring and of the Personal Liberty law.

When Gov. Gardner was nominated in October last for realesting the entered the removal of the personal control of the person

They never did anything but pass resolutions and utter big, smooth words. The American party has done, everything and left nothing to be done, at least this reason."

Mere we have the official organ of the Know-Nothings prondly claiming for its party the credit of the election of Henry Wilson to the Senate, and of the passage of the Personal Liberty law.

Owing to the resignation of one of the members of Congress elected last fall, there was a vacancy in the Tenth Congressional district of Massachusetts, for which a special election was ordered on the same day as the general election. The Republican candidate was Col. John W. Long before it came off, at the street corners, market stalls, and bar rooms of our city, it was openly proclaimed to be the determination of the Know-Nothings to carry the election, at whatever cost of blood or violence; and the course of the journals in their interest, at least the few who were ready to justify illegal acts, or any other who were ready to justify illegal acts, or any other proceedings that promised them success, left us no ground to anticipate a fair judgment in regard to the principles and conduct of the most dangerous party that ever sought by illegal means and vioence, to obtain power in this republic.

Although ruffians were imported from Memphis Although rutians were imported from Memphis, and intermediate river towns, and a gang also came over from Mobile to aid their brethren on this occasion to shed blood, destroy property, violate the laws, and render our republican government a ridiculous farce, auxiliary supports were doemed in sufficient to seenre a trimuph here, and resonned was had to the breaking of the ballot-boxes of two tresinests, where it was known a street Description. precincts, where it was known a strong Democrati rections, where it was known a strong removation of the lawless men who perpetrated the acts well knowing, from past experience, that they had nothing to fear, past experience having satisfied them that the laws are intended to be exused against respectable payerty or unfriended

Our readers at a distance will understand how perate the affairs of the Know-Nothings must e, when, not satisfied with appointing two cut e three of the inspectors of election belonging to their own order—thus securing the rejection of every vote npon any pretext they might set np— with having their own emissaries in charge of every-thing, and crowds of bullies to support them at s given signal—they still had resort to the grossest vi-dations of law. in rejecting, as illocal, the certific olations of law. in rejecting, as illegal, the certificates of naturalization issued by our Courts, in obstructing votes by violence, and, finally, by a crowning act of glory, destroyed the ballot-boxes in precincts well known to be strongly Democratic. Whether any preparations were made by the emocratic party to secure the votes of it we cannot say, but certainly there did not appear to be any, the arrangements all being in the hands of the party who had two out of three inspectors who assumed to say what record of our Courts is good, what worthless; and who, in a word,

The Central American Difficulty be-tween the United States and England. The Washington correspondent of the New York fournal of Commerce gives, in a few words, the most suscinct account of the Central American difficulty between the United States and England that we have seen. It says:

"The chief difficulty lies in the extension of British jurisdiction over the Bay Islands, and especially of the Island of Ruatan, which our Government considers a palpable violation of the letter and spirit of the treaty, and entirely inconsistent with President Pierce's reassertion of the Monroe dectrine.

"The history of the British claim to Ruatan is briefly as follows: It was taken by English pirates in 1650, retaken subsequently by Spain, and again taken possession of by England in 1742, and then fortified. In 1780 the English were dislocated by forces sent from Guatemala. In 1796 the English again became masters of it, but heid it only for one year. The British commander of the garrison at the Balizo seized apon the island in 1830; but again became masters of it, but heid it only for one year. The British commander of the garrison at the Balizo seized apon the island in 1830: but the act was subsequently, apon the complaint of Honduras, disavowed. It was again taken possession of in 1841 by Colonel Alexander McDonald, Iller Majesty's Superintendent in British Honduras, who hauled down the flag of the Bepublic of Honduras and hoisted that of Great Britain in its steed. The island was taken by Great Britain in its steed. The island was taken by Great Britain, without any right to it, no less than five times, and the last time only as late as 1852.

"The tone held by President Taylor's message in 1850 tended to check for awhile the rapid encroachments of Great Britain apon Central America, and both gevernments undertook, in view of the importance to the world of the Ishmus transit, amicably to arrange the matter; but it has so far been unsuccessful.

"Great Britain has possessed herself of the actual sovereignity of territories on the north shore of Honduras, extending over twenty thousand square miles, exclusive of islands and keys. The Raatan Island contains ninety thousand acres of fertile land. In Yucatan, Great Britain has obtained possession of additional territory to the extent of three thousand six hundred square miles. "Add to this the protectorate of the Mosquito shore, extending five hundred miles from the Roman River to the Chiriqui Lagoon, and embracing thirty-seven thousand square miles, and the result is that Great Britain now has practical possession of about sixty thousand square miles in Central America, or one-third of the whole. That she intends to hold all that she has got is now certain; and circumstances are very favorable to her acquiintends to hold all that she has got is now certain; and circumstances are very favorable to her acquisition of all the rest, and that, too, in the face and eyes of the Monroe dectrine, to say nothing of the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty." DAILY NEWSPAPERS.—There is no book so instructive as a newspaper; no knowledge so necessary to be acquired as that which may be gleaned from its columns, and acquired with half so much facility. It is not only the vehicle of the cheapest and most useful information, but it also affords the most cheap, most innocent and least cloying source of pleasure and happiness. A daily newspaper, in a large family, is sure every day to be the means. belishments are wending their way to this city, and will be found in the market house in great numbers, doubtless, a day or two before Thanksgiving.

aftirm that there never was, and never will be, in a country situation, an ignorant family who took a daily newspaper.

Let any parent teach his children to read, and then subscribe to a daily paper, and it is impossible that his family should not in time become well informed, provided they live sufficiently secluded to be thrown npon the paper as a source of amusement. The duliest child who hates a book, will, in rainy secather, steal up to a newspaper, read a marriage notice, and an advertisement or will, in rainy secation, stead up to a newspaper, will, in rainy secation, stead up to a newspaper, for a marriage notice, and an advertisement or two, and put it down. The next time, probably, he will become bolder, and get through "A Horrible Mnrder." Soon he will read short tales of fiction; then, just before election time, he begins to peep into politics, and even to read political speeches. Last of all, he attacks the foreign news. By this time his curiosity on most subjects is excited, and overcomes his aversion and fear of books, and he is turned out to become a reading and well informed man. It is strange that any family, as a measure of economy, should be without a daily newspaper. Children see the world cheaply at home, in a newspaper, without the danger of bad association or the expense of travel.

feet on Harpet's Shoals. We learn from the Cineinnati Commercial of yes lerday that private dispatches from Pittsburg report a steady rain at that point for twelve hours, commencing on Tuesday, which, with the bulk of water on the way down, will make an unusually big river. The Kenton reports a rise of 6 feet at Portsmouth, on Monday night, and the pilots on the Danlel Boone inform us that the Ohio was rising raplily at Maysville yesterday. Considerable heavy drift is floating in the river from Wheeling down. The Scieto was still running out, and the Muskingum too high for navigable purposes. The Pittsburg Gazette of Wednesday says: The Pittsburg Gazette of Wednesday says:

The Monongahela rose very rapidly on Saturday night, on Sudday the Allegheny came up almost as rapidly, giving a stage of 13 feet water. Yesterday the Monongahela was backed up by the Allegheny, which was running out freely.

Some coal boats got out on Sunday, and the rest were following yesterday as fast as possible. Owing to the backwater it was slow work in getting down to the Point; but the rise in the Allegheny is opportune in keeping up the Ohio to a fine beating stage, and the whole neet of coal boats will get out safely. The shipment of coal will be a large one, but we are not able to say how large.

The up town merchants tell us that the rise in the Allegheny is from all the side streams, and that lumber may be expected down this week from all the rafting streams. Those who are engaged in the Allegheny trade are preparing for a busy week.

The St. Louis republican of the 21st says: The St. Louis republican of the 22st says:

11st Rivers.—The river at this point has commenced ising, and in the twenty-four hours ending at 6 o'clock ast evening; it had swelled about one foot. The recent early raise which have prevailed along the Missouring swelled that river considerably. From the mouth of the Osage down there is six feet water, and a good ocating stage is reported to Glasgow. The Upper Missisppp and Hinois rivers are about at a stand. The seather was we, and unpleasant yesterday, and business on the levee was considerably retarded by it, Very few of the boats now up the Missouri will return this season, and several of those which have lately arrived have met with accidents which have, in some in

Gen. Canrobert, in Stockholm, has charged the Russians with bringing Sweden into the alliance. Sweden is required either to assent or refuse.

It is reported from Berlin that Russia recently made a confidential contradiction to Prussia and

MEDICAL. NEW PRINCIPLE! NEW REMEDY! NO POISON! W. C. HITE ... RHODES

Fever and Ague Cure, carpeting, Floor Oilcloth, and Or Antidote to Malaria, FOR THE PREVENTION AND CURE OF Fever and Ague, or Chill Fever; Dumb Ague, and other Intermittent and Remittent Fevers; also, of Bilious Fevers, accompanied by Typhoid Symptoms; Typhoid Fever, Yellow Fever, Ship and Jail Fever, General Debility, Night Sweate, and all other forms of

WHICH HAVE A COMMON ORIGIN IN MALARIA OR MIASMA. THESE DISEASES ARE COMMON to many localities of the United States; but wherever they prevail, North, South, East, or West, they all equally spring from the same miasmal cause. The great variety of symptoms and forms of disease, is owing principally to difference in age, sex, constitution, and habits of the sufferer; but as the cause is the same, they will all equally yield to a remedy that is competent to overcome or remove that cause.

By the laws of nature, every principle has its opposite, and for every disease, or cause of disease, there is a re-agent, or, in other words, a specific remedy. All Malaria, whether arising from Marshes, Stagnant Water, decomposition of annual and vegetable matter, or even newly cleared lands, is the same in character and effect; is a poison floating in the atmosphere, causing disease to all who breatheit. In accordance with those malterable laws governing the unerring affinity sub-

THE NATURAL ANTIDOTE TO MALARIA, Which neutralizes the poison whenever it comes in contact with it, even in the open air, and when taken internally completely purifies the system affected by it of its baneful influence, and thus restores and preserves health.

The remedy is believed to be entirely new, and nnknown to any but the proprietor, who distinctly claims the following extraordinary results from its use:

It will instantly check the ague in persons who have suffered for any length of time, from own DAY 10 TWENTY YEARS, and by continuing its use, according to the directions, a radical cure will be effected; the patient continuing free from the complaint for ever; nnless subsequent exposure to malaria should make its use again necessary.

Which so often follow the administration of other medicines. The patient at once begins to recover appetite and strength, and continues to improve until restored to perfect health.

By its use, Fever and Ague may be banished from every family and class in the community; farmers, mechanics, and all laboring people may be using this article as a ticle as a And pursue their respective avocations in perfect safety from ague and bilious attacks during the sickly season, which is often to them the most valuable part of the year.

Since the introduction of the CURE in every part of the year.

Since the introduction of the CURE in every part of the United States, its success has been so complete and unvarying as to have fully proved these assertions in favor of its extraordinary merit.

When these declarations were made, at the date of its introduction, they seemed incredible to many, even of the most candid minds, because all the resources of science had been taxed in vain to subdue ague or hilious diseases; and what was still worse for ague sufferers, all their remedies or treatment, whether scientific or empirical, have been limited to the use of polsonous or destructive drugs, such as Arsenic, Quinine, Mercury, Salicine, &c. The effects of these are sometimes worse than the disease they subdue; and when such remedies fail, or give only temporary relief, their poisonous effects are superadded to the poor sufferer's first comfects are superadded to the poor sufferer's first complaint.

On this account ague sufferers should be particularly careful about using any secret Fever and Ague remedies, notwithstanding the makers of them uniformly assert they may be taken with perfect safety, even when it is notoriously well known that their potency depends sorely upon destructive poison.

Now as a proof that the remedy is not only valuable on account of its power to cure diseases, but that it is also

WORTHY OF PUBLIC CONFIDENCE, SINGULAR AND ENTIRE HARMLESSNESS,

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., March 1, 1855JAMES A. RHORES, ESQ.—Dear Sir.—Yours of 18th ult. has been receivee, and I am glad to hear that a medicine so efficacious is to be introduced into this Actust country. I have the greatest confidence in its success, and can reassure you of its happy effect upon me in entirely breaking up the chills and leaving me strong and healthy.

I like the statement on your wrappers that you will let the medicine stand on its own merits, and standing thus,
I am most sanguine of its success.
I expect to travel over a large portion of our State this spring, and I shall have abu. dant opportunity to recommend it verbally. Wherever I go I shall take great pleasure in thestestifying to its merits, and ifyou will instruct your agent to let me have a few bottles, I will carry them with me to distribute for your benefit.
In haste, I remain, truly yours,

HAD THE AGUE FOR TWELVE YEARS!!!

PROVIDENCE, June 23, 1855.

Having been informed of the illness of a poor, but worthy woman, who has not been free from Fever and Ague a month at a time for the last twelve years, I supplied her gratuitously with Rbodes' Fever and Ague Cure. She took in all four bottles, which completely restored her to health and strength, and as four months has now elapsed, there is no reason to doubt the permanency of the cure.

I am also aware of many other cases in which it has been used, and have never known it to fail.

Wigs were invented by Richard Beck, of London, and made by one of the gentlemen in my establishment, who took the highest premium for the best Wigs on exhibition at the Industrial Exhibition, London, in 1851. They are warnted not to shrink; (those who have worn Wigs know that the greatest comfort in a Wig is in one that will not shrink AT ALL;) besides they are so close a re elegant specimens of Wigs cannot be found elsewhere.
